Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I am interested in reading COUP D'ETAT. The second item we have to discuss is the matter of the bill you have presented for expenses involved in a trip to Chicago. I am sure that I did not say to you that we would pay transportation to Chicago since it is not our practice to do this for any writers of magazine articles. We also do not reimburse writers for the time spent in discussing articles or books.

I am sorry if you somehow received the impression that we pay expenses or fees, but we do not.

Sincerely,

James Goode
